Overview

One of the main issues teachers/trainers and students had to face during the Covid-19 pandemic has been the difficulties related to interaction in online lessons or training sessions. This has often led to demotivation and frustration by both parties.

However, technology has provided several tools to enhance both peer-to-peer and student-teacher interaction. Among these, Wordwall is certainly one of the most appreciated, both for its user-friendliness and the number of available activities templates.

Objective of the resource

The objective of this resource is to help you create an activity to foster teacher - student interaction using Wordwall. It consists in the creation of a random wheel that can be used to interact with your students collecting at the same time feedbacks about your online or blended teaching. The ludic approach will make students feel free to express their opinion.
